

A CONTROVERSY has been started in Britain as to how long the British really have had bathtubs, and whether they actually bathe more than other people. If the dispute is worth considering, as anything but a silly season freak, the real point should go to Japan. When Peary opened Japan to "civilization," the first bathtub had been installed in the American White House only two years before. Every Japanese had taken a bath every day for a thousand years.

Still the Romans were the great bathers. The great public baths of Rome were its most luxurious establishments. But after the fall of Rome it was a thousand years before anybody in Europe took a bath. Meantime the Mohammedan conquerors of India had raised bathing to a fine art. The baths of Shah Jahan, Akbar and Aurang-Zeb far surpass in sumptuousness anything now known in England or America. Yet they were built about the time the Pilgrim Fathers were building the first log cabins in Massachusetts.

IT WAS in India that the British learned to bathe. The climate made the bath a luxury, and the nations taught the British how to do it. Then they took the custom home to England.

But it was not bathing as Americans now know it. British bathed daily, in bathtubs, long before they had anybathrooms. In India, where the bathing started, there are no sewers. Your servants brought in your bath, and carried it out again. Servants were plenty in England, too, and they brought in the bath to your bedroom, with cans of cold and hot water to fill it. If it is true that there were no bathtubs in Windsor Castle until Queen Victoria's death, it does not follow that there were no baths. In fact, the Queen herself was reported as demanding distilled water for her bath, at a time when distillation was scarce and expensive.

IT WAS servants in America that developed the labor-saving bathroom, with its modern plumbing. And even that is a matter of almost yesterday. Every man of fifty years can remember when bathtubs in private houses were a rarity in the smaller cities of America and unknown in the villages and on the farms. But when it once started, we went in for it as even the Romans and the Moghuls had never done. We are the most be-plumbed nation on earth, and we even judge all other nations by their plumbing. Because we acquired it only yesterday ourselves, we deem all other peoples uncivilized who live as our own fathers did. We cherish newness as they value age, and are prouder of "the latest thing out" than they are of ancestral culture, art and beauty. It is all a matter of the point of view.

MEANTIME, if we like, we may judge other nations also by radio, telephones and automobiles. With less than one-tenth of the population of the world, we have nine-tenths of the radio sets, three-fourths of the telephones and four-fifths of the automobiles in the world. We have ten times more farm houses equipped with electricity than all the rest of the world combined, and most of these are in California. Our newspapers print more news, and circulate it to more people, many times over, than all the newspapers of the rest of the world. We have more and better railroads; many times more "elevators;" nearly all the steel-construction skyscrapers, and the majority of the comfortable middle-class homes. In every physical equipment of life, we so far surpass the rest of the world that there is no standard even of comparison.

DOES this mean, as we are inclined to think, that we are also incomparably the most civilized people on earth? The other people at least do not think so. Our supremacy in things, they concede. But things, they say are not civilization. That consists of people, their institutions and their culture. In these, rightly or wrongly, they deny us the palm. We may be right; but it is not necessary to maintain that position. If some one else says that books and pictures are a surer mark of civilization than plumbing, we need not deny it. It is better to keep the bathtubs, and get the books and pictures, too.

Why "English"? What is most characteristic of this age, English or mechanics? "A good mechanical education" would fit a boy for the ordinary work of life. In our time, better than good "English" and a good common education is one that fits the young person to fill his place, in the life of his time. A good higher education is one that fits the scholar to rise above, and see under, that life.

Old Bell Falls
In Graveyard
At San Luis Rey

SAN DIEGO, July 23.—Its supports weakened after years of service, the bell in the picturesque old San Luis Rey mission which has called the faithful to worship for 128 years, toppled into the grave yard yesterday.

As it fell, the historic old bell continued to peal out its call to worship.

Supernatural was rife today throughout the valley as reports of the bell's falling spread. Many of the worshippers felt that the mishap was significant of some impending disaster. A priest was ringing for mass when the supports gave way permitting the bell to fall.

New Body Extends from
As Acceptable Coalition

(By United Press)

PARIS, July 23.—Raymond Poincare today completed his cabinet slate and immediately departed for the Elysee palace to advise President Doumergue of his achievements.

"We have formed a cabinet of the widest national union in which all parties are represented without taking into account the question of parliamentary groups," Poincare told the United Press as he emerged from the Elysee after meeting Doumergue.

"We tried to accomplish this task by maintaining our ideals at the highest possible point."

Poincare, who vigorously opposed the ratification of the Mellon-Berenger debt funding agreement without vital amendments, and who is the man responsible for the French invasion and occupation of the Ruhr in 1923, apparently has succeeded in creating the coalition cabinet which many persons believe to be essential to the success of French finance.

The cabinet list was as follows:

Premier and Minister of Finance, Poincare; Minister of Justice, Barthou; Minister of the Interior, Sarrat; Minister of Foreign Affairs, Briand; Minister of Public Works, Tardieu; Minister of Commerce, Bokanowsky; Minister of Colonies, Perrier; Minister of War, Painlevé; Minister of Public Instruction, Herriot; Minister of Pensions, Marin; Minister of Agriculture, Quellie; Minister of Labor, Fallières.

The royal visitors began their rounds of the movie plants after an early breakfast at the home of Henry M. Robinson, Pasadena.

They will be guests tonight at a special concert at the Hollywood Bowl, occupying the box or honor.

No arrangements had been made today for entertaining the Swedish royal party tomorrow. They leave tomorrow evening for the Yosemite.

Patterson may have been hit over the head from the rear and then strangled, officers point out.

Because of the condition of the body at this time, officers did not determine whether there were any bullets in the body, but Herman J. Jernigan, deputy sheriff, who took the body to Los Angeles yesterday, said that it was the opinion of x-ray men that the man was not shot. Several spots, revealed by the x-ray, were not believed to be bullet holes.

Orla Moncrief, chief jailer, has been selected as one of the men to make the trip. Sheriff Jernigan said that he probably would make the other selection today.

No clews as to the whereabouts of Albert Gaines, alias Abe Dewey, Utah cowboy, also wanted in connection with the murder, have been found, Sheriff Jernigan said today.

The search for Gaines may be extended to New York City, where Goodwin was arrested, was intimated today by the sheriff.

Gaines and Goodwin were friends and were friendly with Patterson just prior to the latter's death, it was said. A telegram, asking New York police to make a search for Gaines, probably will be sent from here today, Jernigan said.

Will Send Two Deputies

Following the receiving of a telegram from Salt Lake City, yesterday, notifying Sheriff Jernigan that Goodwin was known there and had served a term in the state penitentiary of Utah, Jernigan said today that he would take no chances on the actor-priest escaping while enroute to Santa Ana. He will send two deputy sheriffs to New York to bring the man back.

Agitation in Congress on Power Project Aids in Selling of Lots

SHEFFIELD, Ala., July 23.—If congress will only continue to take its time about deciding what to do with the great government power plant at Muscle Shoals, it will win the undying gratitude of a number of very accomplished high-pressure real estate men.

All the real estate men ask is that congress occasionally renew its discussion of the Shoals question, and then postpone action.

Between 20,000 and 30,000 lots in "subdivisions" within a 15-mile radius of the big power and nitrate plants, have been sold since the shoals controversy first reached congress.

When congress adjourns, demand for the lots subsides. Then, when senate and house begin to buzz anew with debate over the problem there is most gratifying public response to the alluring sales talk of the "subdivision" impresarios.

Small Investor Buys Lots

It is the small, unsophisticated investor, for the most part, who is buying these lots. At present he is found chiefly in distant cities. He can't look the land over personally, but it seems reasonable to him to assume that Muscle Shoals is going to blossom into a great industrial metropolis; so he signs on the dotted line.

He pays 25 per cent of the purchase price when he signs. The rest is paid in installments and if he misses the installments the money he has already paid is forfeited.

Until recently, the name of Harry Ford was a magnet for investors. And thereby hangs a tale—a tale that has ramifications extending into Alabama's present senatorial campaign.

A few years ago, when Ford first went after the Muscle Shoals property, there was a rush to get on the bandwagon. Ford was quoted as saying that if he got the property he would put a million people to work on it; and this part of the state became almost hysterical in its rush to buy land.

Back Dreams With Cash

Farmers, small business men and workers in and about the three cities of Sheffield, Florence and Tuscaloosa pledged their financial futures for a stake in the land near Muscle Shoals. Hardly a clerk in a drug store but backed his dreams with all the money he could find.

And now Ford has turned down and has withdrawn. The district has an almost fanatical faith in him. And the two candidates for U. S. senate—John H. Bankhead, and Thomas E. Kirby, former governor—are campaigning on demands for acceptance of Ford's offer and opposition to the bid of the Alabama Power company and its associates. Each candidate favors Ford. In their debates they grow red in the face accusing each other of not always having done so.

That is one side of it. But the Alabama people are buying no more lots. People in other parts of the country are every time Muscle Shoals talk is heard in congress.

214 Subdivisions in County

Two hundred and fourteen "subdivisions" in a single county, with 75 or more overlapping into a second, were discovered by William P. Collis, investigator for the Better Business Bureau of New York City, when he visited Muscle Shoals recently.

Magnificent reaches of concrete sidewalks, many of them overgrown with brambles and weeds, decorate acres of waste land. And if these great open spaces remain undecorated by any buildings, that is due to congressional procrastination—so say the realtors.

These salesmen's blueprints show "business centers" and "residential districts," very pretty on the smooth blue paper. In fact, one enterprising company has built a "city hall"—the only building on a great weed-grown plain.

U. S. Senator George W. Norris has looked into the matter. He is reported quite astonished by the extent of real estate activity, and is said to have estimated that the real estate already sold or prepared for sale would accommodate more than a million people.

And there the matter stands. If congress would only hand over the property to Henry Ford the residents of this district would send up paens of praise. Failing that, if congress will keep talking about it but do nothing, the real estate gentry will continue to smile pityingly at their brethren who think they have a good thing in Florida.

C. OF C. PROTESTS ATTACKS ON L. A.

LOS ANGELES, July 23.—The board of directors of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce passed resolutions today protesting reported attacks on this city and Hollywood in eastern cities of Dr. Bruce Wheeler, itinerant lecturer.

Dr. Wheeler has been quoted in eastern newspapers, it was said, as declaring that Los Angeles was "morally and financially bankrupt."

In a series of lectures entitled "Keep Away from Los Angeles," the lecturer was quoted as saying that "vice and shame in one block of Hollywood are far worse and more prevalent than in a square mile of either New York or Chicago."

The chamber officials declared that Dr. Wheeler had misrepresented himself as a former educator of this city and as a lecturer for the American health society. An effort is being made to locate him, it was the alleged libelous remarks.

The speaker's asserted statements and "obtain a retraction" of statements appeared in the Buffalo, N. Y., Evening News, and other eastern papers, it was said.

WAR VETERANS WILL INDORSE NO CANDIDATES

The executive committee of the recently organized ex-service men's organization met last night in the offices of M. B. Wellington, chairman, and decided that the name of the organization should be the Veterans' Non-Partisan Association of Orange County.

After some discussion, during which some divergent views were expressed, the executive committee decided that no candidate would be endorsed, not at this time at least.

The next meeting will be held the night of August 24, in the Legion hall, Santa Ana. All candidates are invited to attend. The meeting is to be open to all ex-service men and their wives. Congressman Phil Swing, candidate for re-election to congress; Burton Pitts, candidate for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor, and Walter Lineberger, candidate for the Republican nomination for U. S. senator, are among the candidates expected to be present. The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock.

CRASH HURTS ARE FATAL TO MRS. TURNER

Mrs. Mary Turner, 69, resident of the Goode sub-division, near Talbert, died in the Orange County hospital last night of injuries received in an automobile accident on the evening of July 20, at the intersection of the Talbert-Huntington Beach roads.

Mrs. Turner was riding with her husband, J. W. Turner, when their car collided with a machine being pushed along the road by Clifton Coker, Talbert, according to a report.

She suffered a broken arm and hip and possible internal injuries. Mrs. Turner was removed to the Orange County hospital last night from the Santa Ana Valley hospital, where she was brought soon after the accident.

Coker, at the time of the accident, was pushing his machine to the nearest gasoline station, having run out of fuel on the road, it was reported.

Coroner Charles Brown said today that he had not determined when inquest into the death would be held.

SET M'GUFFEY BOOKS OWNED BY PROFESSOR

Much interest has developed at the state university summer session, in Los Angeles, over a series of McGuffey textbooks, used by Henry Ford as a boy, which were displayed by Prof. Frederick William Roman in his course on the history of American education. These photographed copies of the original text, published in 1836, were given Professor Roman by Henry Ford from a set of 500, which he had made especially for his friends.

Professor Roman concurs with Ford in the belief that the influence of these readers have been of incalculable benefit in molding the characters of many thousands of people. McGuffey was fortunate in selecting material for these books, he says, especially in the third reader, which contains many stories and poems, which teach courage, morality and thoughtfulness.

It is estimated that 9 million copies of the McGuffey readers have been sold, a record. Professor Roman states, exceeded only by the Bible.

McGuffey compiled the first four of his readers in Miami University. Professor Roman showed his class a picture of the table built by McGuffey, on which he wrote and piled his "Electric Readers." This was octagonal in shape, with each octagonal section containing a drawer reserved for one of his readers. Whenever the author saw anything that might be used in his books, he slipped it and filed it away in these drawers. The table is preserved in Miami University.

The lasting impression of these books on McGuffey's former pupils is shown by the fact that they are forming associations to be known as "Alumni of the Little Red School House." Such organizations have been formed in New York City, Indianapolis, Columbus and Cincinnati.

Professor Roman recently resigned from New York university to take up work in adult education in California.

SUGGESTS NEW WATER ROUTE
FOR COLORADO

SACRAMENTO, July 23.—A new route has been discovered by State Engineer Paul Bailey for bringing Colorado river water to Los Angeles and other Southern California points, it was announced by Governor Friend W. Richardson.

The new route, the governor declared, "is much superior, from an engineering and practical point of view, to any yet found. It will largely eliminate the heavy pumping lifts and will make the project much more economical than first estimated."

The route and other plans of the state engineering department would harmonize with the present proposals for the construction of the Colorado river dam at Boulder canyon, the executive pointed out.

"If congress will vote the appropriation for the building of a dam and storage of water of the Colorado river at Boulder canyon, or any other available site, California will be ready to take advantage, to the fullest extent, of its right-of-way of the water when available," said Governor Richardson.

The problem of treatment of the muddy waters of the Colorado, carrying large quantities of silt, can be solved, since the discovery of the new high line, by the construction of a large reservoir at a high location, diverting the water at the surface elevation of the reservoir; and taking only water into the conduit that has been "desilted" in the reservoir.

"The water diversion and distributing system, according to the plans of the state administration, would serve not only the Los Angeles metropolitan area, but all sections of Southern California, from Ventura to San Diego, and from Imperial valley and other districts adjacent to the Colorado river, to the coast."

in February, and the George Dun-ton Furniture fire, in February, represented $126,948.60 of the total loss of the year, figures, compiled this week by Chief Luxembourg.

The loss for the year 1924-25 was one of the smallest on record here, Chief John Luxembourg said.

represented $126,948.60 of the total

The Dunton fire, the biggest of the year, caused a loss of $75,495.65, and the Horton, Fein and Shaffer loss was $51,452.95.

Fire loss for the first six months of the year was $131,698.16.

Because of the Dunton fire, February showed the largest loss. The total for the month was $76,807.78.

January was second, with a total of $53,928.38 in property loss.

The smallest loss in any one month was October, last year, when fire caused only $12,550 in damage.

In April, last year, Santa Ana's fire loss was only $37. There was one month, June, 1926, when there was no fire loss.

With the exception of the months in which the two large fires of the year took place, November of last year, with damage amounting to $6105, showed the highest loss.

Various payments were made up on the debt and, in November, 1925, Hackler gave Casey a chattel mortgage upon his $6,000 orange crop to further secure back payments of interest and principal, it was said.

Superior Judge H. G. Ames refused to grant Hackler a permanent injunction to prevent the foreclosure sale.

Hackler accused Casey of seeking to evade the usury laws in connection with a loan of $12,000 made by Casey to Hackler in 1924. For the $12,000, Hackler gave Casey a note and mortgage for $15,000 and agreed to pay eight per cent interest upon the entire amount, he alleged.

Hackler said that, for the purpose of evading the usury law, the note was made in favor of a Santa Ana attorney, who assigned it to Mrs.
Casey.

gage upon his $6,000 orange crop to

These charges were disputed by the defense at yesterday's trial, and Judge Ames held that the plaintiff had failed to show grounds for issuing a permanent restraining order.

CARAVAN OF 200 AUTOS AND 800 TOURISTS FROM MIDDLE WEST TO VISIT SOUTHLAND

The Register is indebted to J. Albert Dennis, of 1402 Maple street, for interesting and valuable information and suggestion.

Transmitting a clipping from Capper's Weekly, Mr. Dennis writes:

"I am inclosing herewith a clipping from Senator Capper's nationally known Capper's Weekly, containing an account of a big auto excursion party, number 200 autos and 800 individuals, which leaves Battle Creek, Mich. August 3, for Los Angeles, the tour being 7750 miles in length.

An ardent booster of this sun-kissed land of California, I hasten to pass the article on to you for publication, as it will be of interest to hundreds of former mid-westerners now residing here.

Should Invite Party Here
Incidentally, would it not be a good idea for the Register, the chamber of commerce or our county publicity department, in the name of the people of Orange county, to invite the excursion members to visit this peerless Garden of the World and let their souls get a feast of its glories and its beauties—what say you?"

The article in Capper's Weekly occupies first page presentation and is illustrated with a picture of one of the cars of the caravan and a map showing the route over which it will travel—and it comes right through Santa Ana en route from Los Angeles to San Diego.

As Mr. Dennis very pertinently suggests, why shouldn't we invite the visitors to stay in Orange county long enough to see it and learn something about its beauty and productivity?

Article in Full

Here is the article from Capper's Weekly, in full:

"When the J. H. Brown family starts on its annual auto tour from Battle Creek, Mich., August 3, 200 other cars filled with tourists, will follow. Brown's car will lead these tourists over 7750 miles of road and through seven national parks, to the Pacific coast and return. It will take 30 days to make the tour. The route has been laid out, camping spots selected and all necessary advance preparations made.

Traveling in caravans is devised to get the maximum pleasure out of motor touring. Brown started it 10 years ago, when he and his wife made a short eastern tour with a few friends. They have repeated it every year since and every year the number in the whole community goes "Brown's caravan" has increased, touring with him and the business of routing the caravan and making arrangements have become a man size job. The 200 cars will average four persons apiece, or about 800 all told, which will mean a fair-sized village wherever they stop to pitch camp.

Camp As Community

"These tourists camp as a community every night. It is easy to see this affects many economies. Supplies are obtained at a minimum cost. Almost any special service needed can be supplied by some member of the party such as medical assistance, mechanical labor, etc. But more important than the economy of this plan is the joy of having relatives, friends and neighbors around a common campfire every night for social pleasures, to compare notes on the day's sightseeing and to drive away loneliness, one of the bane of long-distance touring. There is no need of sending back picture post cards inscribed, "Wish you were here."

"It is estimated the expense of the trip will average from $15 to $20 a week for every person in the party. This will cover all expenditures, including gas, oil and service on the cars. No other method of travel distance considered, could be enjoyed at so small an outlay.

60 Days' Travel

"Going west the northern route will be taken, returning by the southern, to get the benefit of cool weather so far as possible, both ways. The map shows the route includes nearly all points of natural beauty and interest in the west and northwest. The schedule allows for plenty of time at all these stops. Five days and nights will be spent in Yellowstone National Park, four in Los Angeles and other places accordingly. There are to be approximately 60 days of travel and 30 days of sight-seeing.

"Touring by caravan is one of the most appealing forms of vacation travel yet devised and it has many undeveloped possibilities. Join such a party if you have the opportunity. If not, organize one of your own and become a community benefactor."

While the thermometer is doing its dandiest, "So am I." While you are busting 'em, I am fixing 'em.

3000 PERSONS ATTEND BIRCH PARK CONCERT

The Santa Ana municipal band last night delighted a crowd estimated at 3000 persons gathered in Birch park for the concert program of selections featuring extracts from light operas.

The happy throng was more quiet than on the night of the first concert, according to the statements of members of the musical organization. Second and Third streets were roped off to prevent cars driving over the streets during the concert.

The outstanding number was a selection from "Robin Hood" and "Pinafore" and was highly appreciated by the audience.

The Robin Hood selection was played in a most interesting way, for some kind of a musical instrument was substituted for every solo and chorus in the opera. "The Tinker's Song" was well interpreted by tenors and baritones. "Brown October Ale" was executed with good taste by Richard Taylor. John Rameriz gave splendid expression to "O, Promise Me."

Miss Agnes Davis, soloist on the program, won the hearts of her auditors by her accomplished rendition of "One Fine Day" from Madame Butterfly, and "The Rosary" by Nevin.

Miss Davis is delightful in every way and her art is convincing," D. C. Cianfoni, band director, said. During the program, Miss Davis was presented with a beautiful bouquet as an expression, by the Rotary, Lions and Kiwanis clubs, of their appreciation of the courtesy of Miss Davis in singing at the meetings of the clubs.

BROTHERHOOD IS ORGANIZED BY CHURCHMEN

Organization of a county unit of the California Federation of Church Brotherhoods was completed last night at a dinner meeting in the Santa Ana Y.M.C.A., attended by brotherhood members from all parts of the country.

The object of the organization, the organizer declared, is to promote, encourage and extend the teaching of the Bible through the medium of organized men's Bible classes, to develop and encourage a spirit of brotherly helpfulness and service and to effectively exert its influence for social welfare and civic righteousness.

Not in Politics

It also was intimated that while the federated brotherhoods will not enter politics for the purpose of endorsing any particular candidate for office, they will use their office to promote or oppose certain legislation. In this connection, it was added that efforts would be made to secure legislation which would place the Bible in all school libraries. On the other hand, equal efforts will be made to resist legislation having for its purpose the nullification of the state prohibition law. Opposition also will be voiced to any attempt to legalize horse racing and betting in the state.

The following were elected temporary officers:

First vice president, Marion Falconer, Anaheim; second vice president, Ross Stuey, Orange; third vice president, the Rev. Samuel Edgar, Santa Ana; secretary, Kenneth E. Morrison; treasurer, W. B. Martin, Santa Ana. The election of president was postponed until the county organization has been accepted and affiliated with the state body.

The following members were chosen to represent the Orange county unit in the state federation:

W. H. Thomas, Santa Ana; A. G. Diehl, Santa Ana; Sherman Gilligly, Orange; Luther Miller, Tustin, and Frank P. Taggart, Fullerton.

Brief Talks Made

Brief talks, dealing with objectives of the brotherhoods, were made by L. H. Civille, Pomona; A. M. Wilkinson, Hollywood; Maj. W. McElveen, Los Angeles, and J. C. Porter, Los Angeles.

Creating a mild sensation among the brotherhood members was the statement of L. H. Civille that motion picture actors and others engaged in the movie industry are much misunderstood persons, that close to 50 per cent of the Hollywood movie colony belong to churches and, of this number, not less than 75 per cent are active church members.

Deed Cancellation Asked
Cancellation of a quit claim deed, by which George B. Prather transferred property on Balboa Island to his wife, was asked today in a superior court action filed by the Van Dien-Young company, of Santa Ana, against Mr. and Mrs. Prather.

The Van Dien-Young company, it is stated, holds a court judgment of $812.12 against George Prather and Scott Prather, but says they have no money nor property with which to satisfy the judgment.

The Balboa Island property was transferred by Prather to his wife while he was indebted to the Van Dien-Young company, it is claimed. The transfer prevents the company from seizing this property for its judgment.

Attorney Harry C. Westover, of Santa Ana, represents the plaintiff.

Commission Is Denied

The suit brought by A. E. Hargrove, Anaheim real estate agent, to collect a realty commission of $1500 claimed in connection with a proposed property deal which was not completed, was denied yesterday by Superior Judge Z. B. West. Judge West decided the case in favor of C. U. Paxton, defendant.

Hargrove claimed that Paxton listed his 20-acre ranch in West Orange for sale or exchange, and then refused to make a deal when Hargrove arranged one. Attorneys Thomas McFadden and George Holden represented Hargrove in the case. Attorney Leonard Evans was counsel for Paxton.

Amelia A. Stewart, Stewart charges that his wife deserted him June 15, 1924, after they had been married less than three months. Attorneys Z. B. West Jr. and Franklin G. West represent him.

To Quiet Title

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest G. Sawyer have filed an action in superior court against John T. Short and other defendants to quiet title to property near Placentia. Attorney Leonard Evans is counsel for the plaintiffs.

Pleads Guilty

F. E. Welch, 518 North Bush street, Santa Ana, who is serving a term of 150 days in the county jail for possession of liquor, today pleaded guilty in Superior Judge Z. B. West's court to the charge of transporting liquor. He asked for probation. The court set his hearing for next Monday, at 9:30 a.m. The jail sentence was given Welch by Justice Andrew Wilson, of Newport Beach. Welch's wife and small daughter were in court when he was arraigned today. After the court proceedings, he returned to the jail, with the wife and daughter clinging to him until the doors closed upon him.

Arraignment Postponed
Arraignment of Charlie Page, of Garden Grove, who is charged with burglary, today was postponed until next Friday by Superior Judge E. J. Marks.

His Wife, Aided by Their Friends

The birthday of Richard J. Howland, earlier in the week, was incentive for a merry party when about thirty young people assembled at the cozy Howland bungalow on East Bishop street, having been secretly invited by Mrs. Howland to assist her in celebrating the happy occasion.

Lively games and charades sped the evening hours. Pictures and sketches cut from magazines, furnished amusingly illustrated biographies of the host. These were followed by delightful musical program during which soprano solos were sung by Miss Cleo Bowers and instrumental numbers given by Richard Taylor. Miss Dorothy Hurd was at the piano.

Late in the evening, Mrs. Howland served refreshments of ice cream and home-made cake, one cake being adorned with the appropriate number of gleaming birthday candles.

A pleasant feature of the evening and one which was an additional surprise to Mr. Howland, was the presentation to him of a number of attractive gifts, Richard Taylor making the friendly little presentation speech.

Enjoying the hospitality of the Howland home, and the opportunity to share in the birthday celebration, were the Misses Cora Holt, Cleo Bowers, Irene Blower, Gladys Flinu, Bernice Flinu, Ruth Goodrich, Ruth Goodwin, Venna Goodwin, Vivian Smith, Hazel Smith, Marjorie Arnold, Thurza Van Nest, Frances Van Nest, Dorothy Hurd, Emma Penrose, Hazel Salisbury, Messrs. Gale Harmon, Victor Morrison, Virgil Dunkin, Gerard Blower, Albert Blower, Richard Taylor, William Harmon, Wilfred Taylor, Ray Walworth, Huestis Snow, Elbert Blower, David Goodwin, Lloyd Smith, Millard Beemer and Jack Snow.

GUEST OF HONOR

Mrs. Martha Towner Nash on Tuesday celebrated her ninety-second birthday and was guest honor at a park party.

Guest from Santa Ana
Honored at Party

Orval Hinegarner, who is visiting relatives in Twin Falls, Idaho, has been complimented by several pleasant affairs among them being a rainbow party given by his cousin, Miss Alpha Pierce at whose home he was guest. Miss Pierce invited sixteen young people who were entertained with a series of games in which attractive prizes were given. The rainbow motif was in evidence in decorative appointments and in the refreshments served late in the evening.

Good Table Manners

The secret of charming table manners is daintiness. In fact, the only test of good table manners the world over is the daintiness with which you eat.

The Knife and Fork

There are various and sundry ways of holding the knife and fork. English people dine with the fork in the left hand and the knife in the right. In America it is quite the other way. One-handed eating is the rule. That is, we eat with the fork in the right hand. We transfer it to the left only when the knife has to be used in cutting. The minute we have finished with the knife we put it down on the plate, and transfer the fork back to the right hand.

Whether you are going to use the American or European way of eating, learn to handle your silver with ease. The daintiest way is to let the fork rest with prongs up, on the side of the middle finger, and the first finger joint, held in place by the tips of the thumb and index finger. Let the fourth and little finger curl under the fork. Don't let them stick out at an affected angle. The same suggestions apply to holding a large or small spoon.

When the knife is not in use it should be placed on the plate, midway between the outer edge and center of the plate. A fork, when not in use, is laid parallel to it, but in toward the center.

There is a standard way of setting a table. All knives and spoons are put at the right of the plate, all forks at the left, arranged in the order they are to be used, from the outside in toward the plate.

There is one problem that this order does not solve. Shall you use a spoon or a fork for a particular course? If you do not know, watch the hostess, who should always make the first move in starting a new course.

The Napkin

After one has finished with a napkin, one carefully folds it and places it beside the plate if one expects to eat a second meal at that same table. But when one is dining out for one meal only, or eating in any public restaurant, it is left unfolded at the side of the plate.

How Do You Eat Corn?

If a whole ear is served, break it into two pieces with your hands. If the corn is too hot to touch, use your napkin to protect your hands. Butter and salt two rows of kernels at a time. Take the ear up in one hand and eat that buttered row. Butter and salt the next two rows and so on. Do not bend over the ear if you were devouring it.

How to Eat Asparagus

Canned asparagus is always eaten with a fork, but fresh asparagus may be eaten with the fingers, with both fork and fingers. Usually the tips are cut off and eaten first with the fork, then the remaining stalks are picked up with the fingers, if one desires. The all important thing is to eat it daintily.

POMONA.—Plans for extensive improvements upon the local Union Pacific grounds in which a comprehensive project of beautification will be launched in the near future which will include ornamental cement walks, spacious lawns and a large park are announced by John J. Ford, local agent for the railroad company.

Preparations for the work have been in progress for some time, section crews having been working for several months putting in new, heavier rails, new ties and preliminary cement work and the stage is now set for the landscaping of the station grounds which will take in an entire city block and will give incoming tourists a pleasing impression of this city. Plans for proper maintenance have also been made which will include perpetual care and continuous improvement.

SAN BERNARDINO.—First year that the San Bernardino county motor patrol worked entirely under the jurisdiction of the board of supervisors, a total of $9512 was turned into the county coffers by the department, resulting from violations of the motor vehicle laws, according to a report prepared by Harry Hansen, clerk in the office of C. J. Boone, captain of the patrol. The patrol went entirely under the board of supervisors on July 1, 1925, and the records are compiled to July 1, 1926. There are seven riders on Boone's staff, and they traveled 119,935 miles during the year, stopping 24,733 cars, and warning an equal number of drivers. There were 978 drivers arrested, and the fines paid totaled $9512.

ONTARIO.—Weather of the past few days has speeded up the large grape crop ripening in vineyards to the east, northeast and southwest of Ontario and shipments of this season's grapes will start for the east on or around August 20, it is declared by vineyardists. With favorable weather vineyardists already have large forces in the field preparing to harvest the record crop. From every section of the West end where grapes are grown, reports are coming in that this year's crop will be the largest in several years. Some early table grapes are being picked now in commercial quantities but the great rush is not expected to start much before August 20.

LONG BEACH.—Nearly half a million tons of granite rock have been placed in the outer harbor rock structures by the Hauser Construction company since work in the outer harbor was started last fall. Approximately 48,000 tons of rock have been placed in the west structure, the east structure and the breakwater to date. Work on the west mole and two bulkheads at its seaward end has ceased temporarily to give the structure opportunity to "settle" by action of the waves. When it is considered that the rock work has been battered into what will be its permanent position the big steam shovel will be transferred from the breakwater to the west mole and a cover layer of rock will be placed. As it now stands, there have been about 110,000, there have been about 110,000 tons of rock put into the west mole, 68,000 tons into the west mole, 68,000 tons into the west bulkhead and 100,000 tons in the entrance basin bulkhead. This total of 278,000 tons forms the base for what will eventually be the completed mole and bulkheads.

LONG BEACH.—Cost of maintaining the Long Beach public school system for the coming year will be one and one quarter million dollars less than for last year, according to the budget adopted by the city board of education. The 1926-27 schedule calls for expenditures totaling $3,398,919, while last year's total was $4,605,155. The reduction in the amount of the budget total, according to school officials, is

EASTERN NEWSPAPERS LOUD IN PRAISE OF HOSPITALITY EXTENDED VISITING EDITORS

From many sources of information it appears that Santa Ana and Orange county are getting a world of favorable publicity through the papers represented at the National Editorial Association convention.

Ben H. Read, executive secretary of the Southern California Editorial Association, writes the Register that his office is receiving daily many papers containing fine articles about the visit of the editorial party to Orange county, and the Register has received direct through its subscribers ample evidence that the visitors were delighted with our hospitality, our country and our people.

The articles are much alike and are highly complimentary. Take that which appeared in the Franklin (Ind.) Evening Star, for instance. It was written by W. W. Aikens, the editor of the Star, and treasurer of the N. E. A., and the copy of the paper containing it was brought to the Register by W. A. Huff to whom Franklin, Ind., is the "old home town."

That we may see ourselves as others see us, Mr. Aikens' article is here republished in full:

SANTA ANA, Cal., June 29.—The editorial special reached here early today from San Diego, filled with California flowers and seemingly about a carload of the most delicious oranges. This brought forth the remark from George Dilliver, editor from Battle Creek, Michigan, that he had often seen drug store cowboys, but could never conceive the idea where many drug store oranges back East came from until he reached Orange county, California.

This county is appropriately named, the same as Peach county, back in Georgia, for here is "where all the oranges grow." At least, that is what members of the National Editorial Association have been led to believe.

Breakfast was served the visitors in picturesque St. Ann's Inn. So beautiful were the surroundings that it prompted the thought "who wants to eat in this beautiful country, when all nature offers such delicious fruits?" St. Ann's Inn is a rendezvous for travelers throughout the United States. It is so restful and pleasing, while the menu, so tempting, makes one wish to stay there forever.

Motoring over broad boulevards, passing through a veritable paradise of orange and lemon groves, we arrived at Newport Beach in less than a half hour. Editors are now thoroughly convinced that anything under the sun will grow in Orange county. Truly this section of the state may be termed the garden spot of the universe. On the trip we observed thousands of acres of vegetables and the famous California black-eyed peas that are sold in every grocery store back East. We traversed the hard surfaced highway paralleling the coast and soon to be completed from the Canadian to the Mexican line.

Gardens and Oil Wells

Soon we were spinning over the highway to Huntington Beach. It seems that every few miles are located resorts, and in time the entire coast from San Diego will be just one continuous pleasure resort.

En route to Garden Grove we saw another source of wealth coming from Mother Earth, like liquid gold, in the form of crude oil. Thence through another vast stretch of citrus and walnut groves. The finest chili pepper in the world is grown in this county and I might say it is the center of production of "hot stuff" that graces the table of millions of people.

Justis Craemer and Timothy Brownhill, who came to Richmond, Va., last June, to invite the editors to come to California, made many glowing promises. As editor to editor, we made certain allowances for word pictures that were portrayed at the convention. Today we realized that these two California boosters only skimmed the surface in laying claims for their wonderful country. Without a dissenting voice, members of the editorial party have stated that Orange County is truly the paradise of the world, and their only regret is that they did not "discover" this section years ago.

Practically every city of any size in the county boasts of parks, but Orange county is the first the editors have visited that contained a county park. Still one need not be bewildered in Orange county, for something new and distinctively out of the ordinary may be encountered every minute in this section. Beneath the spreading oaks and sycamores a most delightful luncheon was served the editors. It would be a revelation to the world to have been here today to hear the express-

Disbarred Lawyer Fails In Effort To Secure Appeal

For the second time, S. Koepke, disbarred attorney, yesterday failed to win an appeal to superior court from a justice court ruling that because of his disbarment, he cannot appear as plaintiff in justice court to prosecute any claim of which he is not the bona fide owner.

Koepke, who has been conducting a collection business in Santa Ana, appealed the case he had filed against J. N. Sappington, involving an assigned claim. Justice K. E. Morrison, of Santa Ana, recently dismissed the case on the ground of Koepke's disbarment. The appeal was heard yesterday by Superior Judge E. J. Marks, who also granted a motion for dismissal on the same ground.

Previously, a similar fate had been met by another case appealed by Koepke. That case now has been carried to the district court of appeals, where it is pending.

BEATS MEN

It remained for Texas to supply the first woman to win an old-time fiddlers' contest. Mrs. Ed Petty, ranch woman living near Del Rio, Texas, beat five men and won first prize in a recent contest.

The City of Orange, with its ten thousand happy citizens, built in the Garden of Eden with its trim lawns, lovely flowers and shrubs, climbing vines, offers a setting that is the envy of every municipality. Giant rows of cypress and eucalyptus trees afford ample shade for pedestrians and motorists.

Aside from being in the midst of the fruit industry, Orange county has with commercial activities. Many industries are located here, including a $3,000,000 wire factory, plants for the manufacture of rope, towels, etc. Again our attention was called to educational facilities that have been provided here with the erection of a $75,000 high school building, and we wondered what additional attractions, if any, might be added to make more worth while one's life in this beautiful spot.

Visit Other Cities

Among other beautiful cities we visited today were El Modena, Villa Park where we visited the largest lemon packing house in California, Olive, Richfield, Yorba Linda, Placentia and Anaheim. Adjectives fail me in my endeavor to portray the loveliness of these little cities that offer such marvelous opportunities.

Later in the afternoon we visited the famous Valencia orange grove of Charles C. Chapman in the Fullerton-Placentia district, where again we were invited to pick just as many oranges from the trees as we desired. If you have never picked a deliciously sweet orange, golden ripe, direct from the tree, you have missed something in life.

There is no comparison to the fruit picked green and shipped to market to ripen and which is ripened on the tree. Many people have long aspired to own a small orange grove and there reach out of his bedroom window each morning and pluck the golden fruit. It is here that such opportunities really exist.

In passing, I might mention the fact that Orange county produced from its soil last year $85,000,000 in products, distributed as follows: Oil, $45,000,000; oranges, $15,000,000; with $25,000,000 distributed over sunray crops.

Tonight found the editors quartered in several of Los Angeles' finest hotels where our business sessions will be held for the 1926 convention, beginning tomorrow.

"Then Was the Days," according to Owen P. White, who gives his reasons for the belief that the new west was ideal in a book of the above name. In this story, one reads of sheriffs, who spent weeks in search of one man, who laughed at the law and then ran from it. One may hear of sturdy men, who built up the first great ranches of this country.

Presenting a humorous phase is the story entitled "The Tenderfoot in New Mexico," by R. B. Townshend.

Other books are "High Country," by Courtney Ryley Cooper; "The Land of Journey's Ending," by Mary Austin; "Our National Parks," by John Muir; "The Ranch," by Elliott C. Lincoln; "Trail Dust of a Maverick," by E. A. Brintonstool, and "The Skyline Trail," by Mary Carolyn Davies.

Letters are being sent to all the students who have asked to have their applications sent to colleges, advising them to do their best during their first semester at college in order to get started in their scholastic studies.

The standing of the high school depends upon the record that you make during the first semester," the letter states.

Three Classes of Schools

All the high schools of California are rated on a basis of the accomplishments of the students in the state colleges, Hammond said. There are three classes. Students from class A schools are excepted unconsciously at any of the colleges on recommendation.

In order to prepare for their first semester at college, the Santa Ana graduates are advised by Hammond to review in English and other subjects.

"Colleges are raising their standards every year, thus forcing us to recommend only such students as will make a satisfactory record," Hammond said. "Next year we will have to devise some new means of meeting the pressure. We will have to make more rigid requirements of the students before recommending them."

Serves Two Purposes
"It is for the benefit of the students, as well as to maintain Santa Ana in the A class, that the students are urged to take their college work seriously on entering college," the principal continued.

"So many students think that they must join a fraternity, go out for football and participate in other activities, with the result that their scholastic work is neglected. When their hours fall below a certain point there is no use seeking reinstatement. They are promptly sent home."

The letters are being mailed by Hammond with the view of warning the students what will be expected of them and explaining that the honor of their alma mater, the Santa Ana polytechnic high school, rests upon their accomplishments.

AUGUST RACES
RECORDS SHOW

Scramble for Offices Exceeds All Previous Campaigns, Observers Assert

FIVE INCUMBENTS
ARE NOT OPPOSED

Santa Ana Justice Court Position and Supervisor's Job from 5th Popular

Termination of the nominating period yesterday found 117 candidates straightened out for the sprint down the stretch to the August primary election, with 81 of them striving for 39 offices. Orange county was promised the most generous portion of political "jam" it has ever swallowed in one campaign.

Veteran political observers declared today that they can recollect no such nominating melee in former years as this campaign has furnished. Stirring races were in prospect for 27 of the 39 offices to be filled, while only 12 candidates were left to stroll calmly into their jobs without opposition. Besides these were the nominations for places on the Republican and Democratic county central committees which, as usual, developed little interest and only two contests.

Only Five Offices Touched

The stampede for office has touched all but five county offices. In the 10 townships of the county, only two justices of the peace escaped a contest. The constables were slightly more fortunate. Five of the 11 places will be filled without a contest. In many instances not only two but as many as five candidates are seeking the same office, thereby complicating predictions for the election prophets.

The most sought after offices were those of justice of the peace of Santa Ana township and supervisor from the fifth district. Five candidates were in each race. Four want to be constable of Orange township and the same number are after the job at Fullerton.

The Republican central committee has two contests, one in the second district, where G. F. McKelvey is seeking to break into the committee at the expense of some incumbent, and in the fifth district, where F. W. Conkey has similar designs. In the third district, one less Republican filed for the committee than is to be elected.

The Democratic committee, on the other hand, hasn't enough nominees to fill all the places. The first district is one short of supplying its five members; the third district, with eight places to fill, has only two candidates, while the fourth district failed to seek any representation whatever. It will be necessary to conduct a write-in campaign if the voters fill these places. Otherwise, it is said, the elected committeemen may appoint

SANTA ANA PASTORS DIFFER
IN OPINIONS OF FAVERSHAM
IN CHRIST CHARACTERIZATION

If Jesus Christ were on earth today, how would He act—how would He rank with his fellow men—was He meek and mild-mannered, a "Man of Sorrows," or was He a physical as well as mental giant?

ON RESOURCES

A recommendation that a recently compiled reference report on the face of assertions by William Faversham, nationally known actor, who was forced out of the role of the Saviour in the Hollywood Pilgrimage play because his interpretation of the character of the Man of Galilee did not coincide with that of the play management.

The pastors did not all agree that the Saviour was vulgar in his remarks concerning how the role should be portrayed. He took the attitude that it was little short of impudence for a mortal to lay down hard and fast assertions concerning the appearance, actions and character of The Master.

"Never Properly Interpreted"

"Jesus never has been properly interpreted," said Faversham, in an interview with the United Press. "He was not the 'meek and mild-mannered' man of popular fancy. He was physically a giant, as well as mentally and spiritually. He braved the hardships of outdoor life. He hiked the deserts. And did He not scrounge the money changers out of the temple?"

The Passion play managers asked for a meek man, a gentle partial character. It is evident

BOUND OVER IN JUSTICE COURT

Woman Who Threw Acid in Husband's Face First to Have Her Sanity Tested

Clad in an old green dress, white stockings and black shoes, and looking extremely pale and nervous, Mrs. Alene Jennings, 49, wife of Samuel Jennings, Los Angeles candy salesman, appeared in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court yesterday afternoon in answer to a charge of assault with intent to commit murder. She waived examining trial and was held to answer to the superior court. Bail fixed at $5,000 at the time she was arrested, was not changed.

Apparently in poor health and suffering from a bronchial trouble that kept her coughing from time to time, Mrs. Jennings said nothing to the court. She was represented by Carl Helm, her attorney. The session was short.

From time to time she talked with a friend who had come from Los Angeles to be with her, and who attempted to cheer her during the court session, but few of her words were audible.

Mrs. Jennings threw acid in the face of her husband on the night of July 13, and then shot at him with a pistol while the two were in a room together in St. Ann's Inn. She then attempted to commit suicide by drowning herself in a bathtub at the hotel, but was saved by the arrival of police officers.

Several times, during her conversation with her friend, yesterday, she brought in her husband's name. "How is he?" "Oh, how is he?" she asked from time to time.

She was told that he was greatly improved, but would probably be in the hospital for a month yet.

On one occasion, she suddenly burst into tears, her whole body shaking. "Oh, how I wish it was me, instead of him. Bless his heart. Oh, me, oh me," she wailed. The woman on her right quietly patted her shoulder and attempted to cheer her.

Once a deputy sheriff attempted to stop her sobbing. This was before court was opened.

During the proceedings, she seemed to pay but little heed to the reading of the complaint. She said nothing when the judge was told that the state was ready and so was the defense. She paid but little attention when her attorney announced that she would waive preliminary examination.

Mrs. Jennings will be brought up in superior court today. After her case is docketed, she will be given a sanity test, it is understood, and if proven insane, the criminal charge will be dropped.

Should she be found not insane, it is understood she will be given an almost immediate trial, on the charge.

Mrs. Jennings expected her husband in court yesterday afternoon, but she did not seem disappointed when he did not come. Her lawyer told her he would not be there.

Only a small crowd was present when the case was called, most of whom were Los Angeles persons.

What was described as an ideal vacation trip to Alaska, combining automobile, train and steamship travel, has just been completed by Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Barr and their two daughters, Frances and Katherine. They left Santa Ana by train on June 28 and arrived back in this city on July 21, having been gone 25 days.

The trip to Seattle was made by train. In Seattle, the Santa Ana persons boarded the steamship Dorothy Alexander, of the Admirals Line, for the Alaska excursion, via the Inside Passage. Short stops were made in Victoria, B. C., Ketchikan, Juneau, Wrangell and Skagway. In Skagway, passengers were given an opportunity to visit Lake Bennett, which is reached by narrow gauge railroad through a deep gorge. The road parallels, for a few miles, the famous Klondike gold rush trail.

The only snow seen on the entire trip, Barr said, was that on the top of the mountains. A sight of Taku glacier more than filled the bill as regards winter scenery, he added. Land was visible during practically all of the 1000-mile trip from Seattle to Skagway.

The Southern California Yachting association regatta is to meet in Orange county waters this year. Most of the yachts will bring prominent visitors, all of whom will be able to tell something to the world of Orange county's advantages.

AT THE THEATERS

WEST COAST-WALKER

Dolores Costello triumphs again. This time it is in the title role of "The Little Irish Girl," the mystery-comedy that comes to the West Coast-Walker theater today for a run of two days. The picture is important because it reveals Miss Costello as one of the deftest comedienne now on the screen.

In "The Sea Beast," with John Barrymore, when she made her first great success, coming from nowhere as far as the screen is concerned, to immediate stardom, she was revealed as a romantic actress of unique potentialities. In her appealing, winsome beauty, one felt the sway of the girl just turning to womanhood.

A conqueror in the fields of romance, of modern drama, and thundering melodrama, Miss Costello now turns to comedy for another triumph. And, according to all reports, "The Little Irish Girl" is lifted to a shining place among the year's pictures by the star's acting. She appears as Dot Walker, a young Irish girl, who has drifted, unthinkingly, in with a gang of "grifters"—"Grifters," let it be explained, is a name given among crooks to people who combine the gentle arts of grafters and shop lifters. It is also the title given by C. D. Lancaster, the author, to the story from which the picture is adapted.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

Yes, sir, "Say It Again," which opened at the Yost Broadway yesterday, is a great picture. Richard Dix never had a better one, nor has Gregory La Cava ever turned out such a comedy knockout.

We are taken to Spezonia. The royal chateau has been transformed into a military hospital. Dix and a buddy, "Gunboat" Smith, are temporarily out of action. Richard, with a bandage completely covering his face, has fallen in love with Alyce Mills. She is of Spezonia's royal blood.

The war completed, along with a million other Americans, Dix is swept back to New York, but can't forget his lost love. A year passes and he determines to find her or die in the attempt.

On board ship he bumps into "Gunboat," now a steward. Also included among the passengers are

PRINCESS THEATER

Every Boy Scout in the county will want to see "The Radio Detective," which is coming to the Princess theater, beginning tonight, with Jack Daugherty as its star. In this great serial, Easton Evans, the hero, is a scout-master, college athlete and radio wizard. He is a clean, manly young American, who passes through many thrilling adventures. Daugherty is excellently fitted to play this role, especially wherein it relates to boy scouts, for he is one of the most darling heroes of the screen and is especially interested in Scout work.

IN DAYS OF OUR FOREFATHERS

Women Prepared Their Own Medicines

The wise pioneer women learned to gather, in woods and fields, the remedies the Indians used. From the rafters of colonial houses, hung great bunches of dried roots and herbs. From these, in times of sickness, the busy mother brewed simple and powerful remedies.

From roots and herbs, Lydia E. Pinkham, a descendant of these sturdy pioneers, made her Vegetable Compound. The beneficial effects of this dependable medicine are vouches for by hundreds of women who tell of returning health and strength.

Mrs. Wm. Kraft of 2838 Vinewood Ave., Detroit, Mich., saw a Pinkham advertisement in the "News" one day and made up her mind that she would give the Compound a trial. At that time she was very weak. "After the first bottle," she writes, "I began to feel better and like a new woman after taking six bottles. I recommend it to others and always keep a bottle in the house."

If Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped other women, why shouldn't it help you?

EXTENSION OF ELECTRIC LINE TO BE SOUGHT

SEE-SAWING Up and Down FOURTH STREET

By The Rambler

Efforts will be made during the next few months to have the Pacific Electric Railway company extend its line from Fern in northern Orange county, to Corona, according to an agreement reached yesterday in Long Beach, where representatives of a number of cities in Orange and Riverside counties met to discuss plans for securing better electric car service from inland towns to the beaches. The meeting was held in the office of C. A. Bland, Long Beach transportation manager.

Several plans were discussed, but it was agreed to drop plans for the extension of a line from Fullerton to Orange and plans for the electrification of the Southern Pacific line from Dyer to Newport Beach and to concentrate on the extension of the line through Santa Ana canyon to give Orange county electric car service to Riverside county towns. The present Orange county line, which runs to Fern, connects with Fullerton, La Habra, Whittier and Los Angeles. If the line is extended through Santa Ana canyon, it is pointed out that the cities of Corona, Arlington, Riverside, and a number of other towns will be in the circuit.

Another meeting of the representatives is scheduled for September. The meeting will be held in Corona and, according to announcement today, it is planned to have representatives of the Pacific Electric company present at the session. Bland will be in charge of the meeting. It also is expected that the proposition of extending the line from Fullerton to Orange, to connect it with the Santa Ana street car lines, will be taken up at the meeting. It is pointed out that by the extension of the Fullerton line and the electrification of the Newport Beach line of the Southern Pacific railway, a circuit would be established from inland towns to Beach coast towns.

PROVO EDITOR IS REGISTER VISITOR

N. Gunnar Rasmussen, editor of the Evening Herald, in Provo, Utah, was in the city today looking over the Register plant.

The visitor asserted that he had heard so many compliments on the Register by newspapermen that he came all the way here from San Luis Obispo to see the plant and meet the men responsible for its production.

Incidentally, the Provo editor said that this was his first visit to California and that he was delighted with what he had seen and impressed with the many indications of prosperity, particularly in Southern California.

Cuban barbers lather their patrons with their hands, from a bowl made to fit under the chin. No brush is used.

Santa Ana may not be a metropolis, but we are getting along in some ways, thank you. Within the last week—

A woman shot at her husband, threw acid in his face when she missed fire and then attempted to commit suicide.

Authorities discovered evidence of a cold-blooded murder perpetrated near Santa Ana.

A man hanged himself.

An actress was sentenced to jail for speeding her automobile 55 miles an hour on South Main street.

A woman asked for a divorce, because, she said, her husband insisted that she accompany him on "wild parties."

Two men and two women were incarcerated, charged with intoxication and breaking glass on the highway.

A burglar robbed a house of jewelry and other valuables.

A woman cut her throat with a razor.

What has become of the drug store that once was an "apothecary"?....Note more that Santa Ana drug stores are turning into lunch rooms and giving less and less space to medicine.Sign in a Fourth street lunch room reads: "You can eat here in five minutes."....Hundreds of persons do it, too....Grabbing and running up the noon hour....More like stampeding animals than humans....Among the new automobile accessories are little tables that can be set up for dining so that no precious moment need be lost....Where will this rush for food end?

The life of a telephone book in one of the public booths here is short-lived. Last a month, maybe two....People who telephone there are in a hurry, no matter how much time they have on their hands....Young fellows trying to make last minute dates....Flappers getting in communication with other flappers and talking loud and long while impatient folk line up for the next shot at the book and the phone....Matrons talking to husbands, whose offices may be less than a block distant....Those telephones could give the newspapers some pretty good stories—if the telephones could talk....So the people paw through the poor little book ruthlessly, whisking through the pages and tearing them from their binders....Frequently entire sections are missing.

The weaker sex gets bolder. Here are a few of the places we have seen women smoking cigarettes in the last week: Front porch of a Main street residence. Open automobile parked on Fourth street, near Broadway. Theater lobby. Lunch counter of a restaurant. On North Main street, near Sixth street. (She sneaked a "drag" from her escort.) Church pews and the like.

front steps of the Y. M. C. A. building will be next.

Kids the world over will find an "old swimmin' hole" somewhere, even if that somewhere happens to be the crowded confines of a city. And since there are no willow-cooled brooks in this welter of people and the beach is too far for use, the youngsters are making use of the gold old family lawn hose as a "swimmin' hole."

Drive out into the residential district almost any of these sultry afternoons and you'll be likely to find half a dozen kiddies hopping to and fro, in and around the sprinkler and yelping their delight as a spray of cooling water catches them broadside. These youngsters, if you'll watch closely, play with that water. They want to get wet and yet they sort of half-heartedly dodge the spray, "kinda" hoping they'll get caught napping.

They have got into the habit of being saved so often by other nations that they are indifferent to their present plight, believing it is to the world's interest once again to prevent France from collapsing.

Santa Ana is filled with these rather wistful parades on the games and sports enjoyed by children of less populous places.

Gone are the lots where neighborhood athletic clubs used to fight it out for baseball and football supremacy. The clubs have given way to the progress and prosperity of a thriving community. Gone are the "run-sheep-run" and "black-man" games that were commonplace on our streets and avenues, now paved and utilized only by snarling motor cars. Even our so-called park warns the kids to keep off the grass.

So what's a guy going to do anyway?

See-sawing up and down Fourth street did see office-seekers handing out their cards furiously and I did begin wondering what becomes of all these cards after the election is over....Saw Joe Steele, the portly barber, and Joseph did seem somewhat slighter and less stout....Saw Ray Miles, the shoe store man, and Ray doth seem to walk as though he were a sailor....Saw a woman weigh herself on one of these "drop a penny" scales and go away muttering that "something was the matter with that darned thing."....Saw A. E. Hawley, the sporting goods dealer, who used to pay Walter Johnson $6 a game for pitching every Sunday for the Santa Ana All-Stars....Saw George Peters, the banker, who used to be the record-keeper for the Santa Ana fire department. Saw D. K. Hammond, the high school principal, who speaks several languages fluently and who wears a Phi Beta Kappa key and did think that if any man enjoys a vacation it must be the educator.

BALBOA

Estelle Brown Mills, a well known singer and teacher of voice in Los Angeles, entertained a number of her students and some famous concert singers at a luncheon at the Balboa Yacht and Swimming club, situated on what was formerly known as Collins's Isle, today. The guests at this function included Frank Gelger, popular baritone; Gale Mills Dillimitt, singer for the First Methodist church, Los Angeles; Harold Girtton, of Orange; Harry Porter, Mrs. Elsie Riddle, of Long Beach; Percy Olds, Madeline Lux, Mrs. Ruth Dibble, Mrs. Grace McAnaney, Paul Trawick, Mrs. Tatsch, Gladys Denell, Mrs. Laura Taylor, Emmet Steitz, Easter Richards, Mrs. A. I. Root, Miss Charlotte Nellens, Miss Pearl McMullan, Ben McLaughlin and Mona Moran.

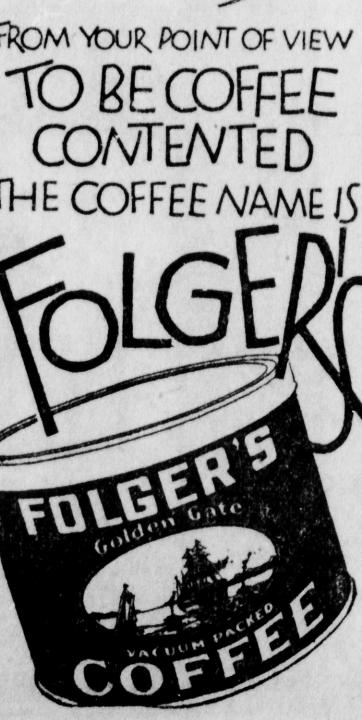

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Weigel and daughter, Mrs. Beekers, of Fresno, are spending the summer on their yacht, the Wynx. They are members of the Balboa Yacht and Swimming club.

Mrs. Lucy E. Ayas, of Santa Ana, will occupy her cottage here for the greater part of the summer. Mrs. George Anderson, of Santa Ana, has been her guest for a few days.

Among the events arranged for the entertainment of the guests was a trip around Balboa Island, a swimming party and an attractively appointed luncheon at the Balboa Yacht and Swimming club.

Mrs. Mills, known professionally as Estelle Brown Mills, and her husband, S. Arthur Mills, have a summer home on Balboa Island to which they make frequent visits.

U. S. DOLLARS SAVING FRANCE FROM DISASTER

By J. W. T. MASON
Written For the United Press

the way of the previous $80,000,000, France will fall in the financial abyss, unless, in the meantime, the new Poincare ministry can increase taxes sufficiently to permit France to balance her budget and pay her way. The previous Poincare ministry, in 1924, was defeated by the chamber of deputies when it tried to raise taxation 20 per cent.

A new election, which followed, put the present chamber in power on an anti-Poincare platform. Yet this same chamber now is forced to accept a Poincare government once more, or stand by while France is threatened with revolution. There is no question of France's ability to pay and save herself from bankruptcy if Frenchmen can be persuaded to make the necessary sacrifices. France is wealthy and without unemployement. But the French people reckon in sous and have carried the principle of saving to the extreme of a vice.

Thus, while the French people are attacking the American people as Shylocks, American money is saving France once more. There remains about $20,000,000 of the Morgan loan available to prop the franc. When this has gone

WALLACE PRESIDES AT LIONS MEETING

With J. C. Wallace presiding as chairman of the program, the Lions club yesterday put over a snappy program more or less of impromptu development. Talent was developed from the membership, with fine features revolving around personal criticism of one member by another. Many amusing features concerning individuals in the club were brought to the front.

The musical numbers were given by D. C. Clanahan, trombone selections, and by Alan Revill, the latter giving in music his personal impression of some of the members of the club. The impressions were conveyed by extracts from different popular numbers or rag time music.

Lawrence Coffing was named as chairman of a committee to develop a golf team to represent the club in a golf tournament to be played by teams representing the Lions, Kiwanis and Rotary clubs.

Lemon Juice Whitens Skin

The only harm less way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard and White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well and bring it in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.—Adv.

By BILLY EVANS

Miss Mary Lawson of Arkansas City, Kas., has just bought among other things, 24 pairs of shoes. She is to be the bride of Allen B. White of Grove City, Pa., and will leave with him immediately after the ceremony for Talara Nigritios, in Peru, where he'll be stationed by the International Petroleum company. So she's laying in a three years' wardrobe.

The many friends in Orange county of George T. Peabody will be interested in hearing of his departure, a few days ago, for Arizona, where he is associating himself with a group of men in plans for the development of a large area of land.

The project embraces about 70,000 acres and calls for the construction of a storage reservoir to hold 1,200,000 acre feet of water. While the exact location of the tract is not known it is said that it is in a region where there is no frost and much of the area is choice and suited for citrus culture. An expenditure of $3,500,000 is planned and the capital behind the venture is from both Arizona and Southern California.

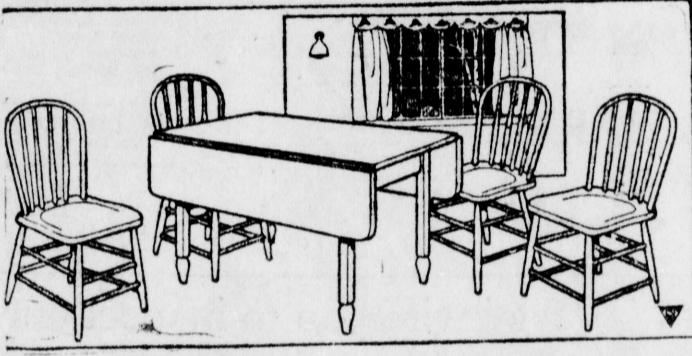

The project is expected to be second only to the great Salt river project, which government officials state to be so far in the lead in the reclamation projects established by the government that when making estimates of returns and value it is reckoned separately. The Salt river project has a power revenue, which totals enormous sums and will eventually reach $1,000,000 a year.

While in Orange county, Peabody did some splendid work on the "tidelands" committee for the county and largely due to his untiring efforts the settlement of this trying matter between the county and the Irvine Ranch company, was made a few months ago. Before leaving, Peabody also initiated a movement for settlement of all tidelands on Newport Bay. Before coming to Newport Beach a few years ago, Peabody was associated with the Chandler Improvement company, which developed and marketed 23,000 acres of land under the Salt river project a few miles from Phoenix, Ariz.

Active in all matters affecting the welfare of Orange county, Peabody will be missed from the many gatherings where the future progress of Orange county is discussed. He served as director and as president of the harbor chamber and has ranch and other interests in the county.

BLAUERS CITY CHAMPS AS TIERNANS LOSE

BILLY EVANS
Says

"Push 'em up Tony!"
That is the favorite expression of New York fans at present.

It closely rivals what has been the college yell of the Yankee supporters for years:

"Bust one Babe!"

For Tony Lazzeri, playing his first year under the big tent, is already an established favorite in New York.

Without a doubt, Tony Lazzeri is one of the best looking infielders to break into the American league in years. He is destined to be a star, a much-talked-about athlete. In fact, already is the subject of considerable gossip.

Lazzeri is colorful. He has an easy, graceful style in the field, is fast, and at the bat takes a healthy cut at the ball that gets great distance when he connects.

Tony, however, is not strong on oratory. He is a tough guy to interview.

"You play baseball with your heads, hands and feet, not your mouth," is Tony's favorite expression when some scribe tries to get him to talk about himself.

While Tony is very appreciative of all the kind words that have been said about him, he much prefers the newspaper men to draw on their own imagination for copy rather than talk about himself.

Lazzeri came to the Yankees as a

ENGLISH SCRIBES MISQUOTE AMERICAN ATHLETES, CLAIM; FARRELL CITES HAGEN CASE

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, July 23.—Considering the rather general disposition of the Englishman to be sensitive, especially against any actions suggesting ingratitude, the interview which Walter Hagen was quoted as giving after the British open golf championship, should have created a storm in England.

But it did not. There was much more of a stir in the American press, while most of the London papers either ignored it or passed it on casually. It was rather curious in talking to prominent London sportsmen that they didn't believe that Hagen ever said such a thing. They recalled that he had been quoted in a nasty interview three years ago that he later denied.

Hagen certainly is no shrinking violet. He knows he's good and

HELPS ATHLETICS

Famous major league player of a couple of decades ago, who is aiding the lanky Connie Mack in piloting the Philadelphia Athletics this season. The "Kid" has been given a great deal of credit for the success of the team in general and "Lefty" Grove in particular. As a "right-hand man" to a big league manager there is perhaps none better qualified for the post than Gleason. He once took a whirl at running a big league club himself, being boss of the Chicago White Sox several years ago.

Gets Dempsey Signature

Clements then went to California, interviewed Dempsey and obtained Dempsey's signature on an option—paying the champion just $10 for his signature.

Later Fitzsimmons attempted to collect the $150,000 from Clements but his sight draft was refused payment. Neither he nor Dempsey have collected a cent from Clements and it is understood they have nothing on paper to show that Clements owes them anything.

This makes Clements' $10 option on Dempsey's services a binding contract and under this option Dempsey must meet Harry Wills in Chicago before he takes on Tunney.

"CLEMENTS IS FALSE ALARM" SAYS DEMPSEY

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 23.—Jack Dempsey has no concern about the news that B. C. Clements, president of the Coliseum club in Chicago, claims a valid and binding contract with him to fight Harry Wills.

"Clements has no more contract for my services than a fish has feathers," exclaimed Jack. "Clements hasn't a contract of mine, because I still have the one I signed, just as I told the United Press yesterday. Clements came out to Los Angeles with Floyd Fitzsimmons last spring with big talk and no wallet."

So far this season all kinds of discipline has been visited on ball players whose actions on the field were not in accordance with the manager's idea of a hustler.

Grover Cleveland Alexander, the great, went down the river from Chicago to St. Louis because he didn't agree with his manager.

Joe Bush, of "bullet ball" fame, was given papers from Washington for reasons that "Bucky" Harries has not made public.

McGraw has just threatened "Irish" Meusel and George Kelly with a place on the bench if they do not show more interest in their jobs. McGraw said in St. Louis that Meusel and Kelly had been missing signals or ignoring them and that his whole club was sadly in need of a spirit of hustle.

The magnates admit that they know of no solution to a new problem of how to make their athletes hustle. So far they can only fine or fire.

Because a pipe bites
that's no sign it's teething

DON'T GET THE IDEA old pipe's in his second childhood and cutting teeth just because he bites your tongue half off...

That "bite" means that there's something wrong with your tobacco: either, it isn't mellowed properly or it isn't cut properly... If it's the least bit raw or green it's naturally harsh and bitey... while finely cut or granulated tobacco burns too fast and smokes hot and raspy.

PIPE tobacco must be well-mellowed... it must be cut to burn slowly. And that's exactly why Doctors of Pipeology recommend Granger Rough Cut as a sure-cure for "pipe-bite."

For the famous old Wellman Recipe gives Granger a rich, spicy mellowiness... a mellowness all its own. And being rough cut, its large flakes burn slowly and smoke cool... without the slightest trace of any bite... Granger is PIPE tobacco!

EXCELSIORS IN 10 FRAME, 5-4 WIN OVER KIDS

Husky Jackson's Single Breaks Up Mound Battle; Belated Rally Features

The F. C. Blauer grocery today was "in" as the champion team of the Santa Ana City Indoor Baseball league following the 5 to 4 defeat, in 10 innings, of the Ternan Typewriter company by the Excelsior Creamery company at Lincoln park last night.

The Ternans had a chance for the title if they could have won from the Milk-Dispensers and then defeated the Blauers next week, but their downfall at the hands of "Tex" Bergman's gang eliminated them as a contender and clinched the flag for the Growers.

It was a disheartening reversal for the Ternans and a great win for the courageous Excelsiors who came from behind in the last of the ninth to tie the score after two were away and nobody was on base. Incidentally, it was one of the most bitterly contested and best played matches of the summer indoor ball campaign here.

Jackson Ends Game

"Husky" Jackson, the burly Excelsior first sacker who looks like Babe Ruth, broke up the game in the last of the tenth. He connected for a clean single over second base and Brede, who had begun the frame with a double, scored from third with the run that beat the Ternans out of a chance for the championship.

The Ternans held the upper-hand almost all the way through. When they scored one in the half of the ninth, making the count 4 to 2 in their favor, and when the first two Excelsior hitters in the last of the round were easy outs, many fans departed for home and didn't even witness the sensational windup.

Gene Hitt, the Kids' star gunner, who had twirled great ball, suddenly weakened. He first walked Bowe. "Beano" Golden poked a single into center. A passed ball put Bowe on third and Golden on second and a wild pitch allowed Bowe to score and Golden to take third. Hendricks walked. Whitten smashed a grounder to Hill who threw low to first base, letting Golden cross the pan with the tying tally. Bergman was an infield out but the damage had been done.

Finish Up On Hitt

The Excelsiors settled down to their task in the tenth and finished up on the faltering Hitt. Brede doubled to left. Jiles filed to Smith. Lee singled infield. Brede staying at second. A wild pitch put runners on third and second and then Jackson whacked his single into center scoring Brede.

The Ternans got one in the first inning when with two down, Hill walked, went to third on Preble's double to center and scored on a wild pitch. The Kids grabbed a couple more in the fourth when Hill singled. Hitt walked and Smith hit a fly to center that struck a wire and went for a single, allowing both Hill and Hitt to score.

Bergman Helps Cause

Pitcher "Tex" Bergman helped his own cause along in the fifth when the Excelsiors scored two and made the count 3 to 2. Golden got a life on Smith's error and Hendricks walked. Whitten filed out but wild pitch advanced the baserunners. Bergman hit a long fly to right that Youel snared for a beautiful catch. Golden scored after the catch and Hendricks followed him over the pan when Youel's throw-in took a crazy hop over Doer.

WEST INDS
HERE & THERE
LOCAL SPORTS
By EDDIE WEST

Santa Ana can claim the first Southern Californian to "make" the All-American football team—Los Angeles newspaper men use their heads this fall.

That may, at first blush, sound as an extraordinary statement, but it's true.

Newell ("Jeff") Cravath, a native Santa Ana, former Santa Ana high school center, and now the captain and star of the University of Southern California eleven, is an All-American football player in every sense of the word, but he'll have to have the support of the Los Angeles sporting writers if he lands this honor.

Sneezed it off if the west had the newspapers have "made" all the All-Americans the west has ever had. Constant publicity is the only way that outstanding Pacific coast players can obtain recognition in the east, which is only beginning to realize there is such a thing, footballistically, as the west. San Francisco papers landed positions for "Brick" Muller and Ernie Nevers. Northwestern writers got one for George Wilson. Los Angeles can get "Jeff" Cravath the honor he richly deserves if the newspaper men dig in and help him.

"Colonel" Berry's American Legionnaires, still setting a terrific winning pace, go to Anaheim for one of their most important tussles of the year while the Chamber of Commerce squad remains at Lincoln park to oppose Laguna Beach, which will make its maiden appearance here.

Anaheim, away slowly, has been climbing sensational and is one of the most feared outfits in the circuit. Manager Jimmy Heffron has assembled a formidable array of talent and the locals will have to be at their best to remain at the top of the standings column. "Eeny" Wilcox will attend to the hurling chores for the Legion.

Laguna Beach, which plays here, has been something of an in-and-out but the Artists are capable of offering fast ball and should make the Chamber, which has been in a slump, hustle to come out on top. "Tex" Bergman, victor in a great mound battle with the Ternans last night, will probably heave for the Santa Ana Orange.

Orange will meet Brea at Orange and if Jimmy Mansfield chuckles for the Oilers there is a chance that the winning streak of the Orange ones may be stopped for Mansfield's fast ones are hard to hit any time.

Tilden Defeats Californian In Straight Sets

CHESTNUT HILLS, Mass., July 23.—William T. Tilden, II, national tennis champion, defeated Edward G. Chandler, youthful Californian, in straight sets in the semi-finals of the Longwood bowl tournament 6-4, 7-5, 6-2 here yesterday. Only in the second set was the champion in danger, and even at that point the danger was short lived.

Chandler showed strong as the second set opened, taking the first three games handily. Tilden appeared a bit erratic, but rallied and took four in a row. Tilden rushed through the third set without giving his youthful rival a chance.

"Clemens is a false alarm who couldn't put the fight over himself because it was too big for him. He

Political Periscope

It's all over now but the running and the shouting.

Yesterday was the last chance for anyone to get his name on the ballot that will be presented to the gentle voter on August 1.

There was quite a bit of activity the last three or four days of the period in which filing was possible, but at that there wasn't much in the way of results as had been expected.

Two candidates walked right up to the political trough and decided not to taste the water.

One of these was Harry Moore, of Orange, who, by profession, is a teacher of commercial subjects in the Orange Union high school. He took some papers out of County Clerk Back's office a few days ago, with the intention of becoming a candidate for county auditor. Just why he quit does not appear. Possibly on second thought, or rather on investigation, he came to the conclusion that County Auditor W. C. Jerome would not be an easy man to boot out of the position he now holds, and which he has held since he defeated C. D. Lester by a majority of 1200 some years ago.

During the last week, three men were urged to enter the race against Jerome. The talk among those who think they are wise politically is that it was expected by getting somebody to run against Jerome that Jerome would be kept busy and would not have time to do a few things in relation to some other matters in which he would be interested.

Elmer Schaniel, adjutant of Santa Ana post, American Legion, had no thought of running for office until along came someone who suggested to him that he run for auditor. Then someone else suggested the same thing. Then a third party suggested it. Elmer got a notion that somebody was campaigning on him. He thought there was a conspiracy to get him into it. He analyzed the situation, talked around a bit and was convinced that he didn't want to run against Bill Jerome. Some other time for some other office, Elmer might run, but he exercised what he considers due discretion in the matter. Elmer decided to keep his name off the ballot.

Just how the auditor bug came to bite the Orange professor does not appear.

It was nearly a week ago that George Richardson, who used to sell used cars on Main street and who is now selling cigars, etc., on Fourth street, got to thinking about running for something. He filed his papers yesterday, the last candidate for county office to get his nomination perfected. Jerome's papers were in a week or two ago.

And that's the way it wound up—Jerome and Richardson—instead of Jerome, Schaniel, Moore and Richardson.

Allen Climbs Aboard

A week ago, it looked as though there would be but three candidates for superior judge, long term.

Judge Homer G. Ames, District Attorney A. P. Nelson and ex-Judge W. H. Thomas were filed, with two to be elected.

The situation offered the guesser some food for thought. Who would be the low man? Then Allen came in. That makes it different again. Will Allen's vote come off of Ames, Nelson or Thomas? If you had made up your mind to vote for Ames and Thomas or Ames and Nelson or Nelson and Thomas, and you are among those who desire to drop a crossmark after Allen's name, will you select Ames, Nelson or Thomas to be coupled with Allen?

To the bitter end, clear down to the clang of the bell yesterday afternoon, Judge Emerson J. Marks held the short term all to himself. He's going to remain on the superior bench without having to beat anybody for it.

Ball and Hartranft

The periscope has a vision of rather an interesting affair between Dr. C. D. Ball, of Santa Ana, and S. C. Hartranft, of Fullerton. The Democrats evidently are not interested in putting out a candidate for assemblyman. So the Republicans, on August 1, will determine who is to be Orange county's next assemblyman.

The lay of the ground is quite different from what it was two years ago. At that time, Realtor Allen, said to have Ku Klux Klan activities, of Anaheim, also was in the race. He got 4100 votes. He's not running this time.

Ku Klux Klan activities are not yet as acute in the present campaign and the story has it that the K's will do their voting quietly and understandingly, but without putting their own members as such into the campaign as candidates. At least, they have put no candidate into the fight for assembly. Neither Ball nor Hartranft belongs to them.

Ball's supporters say that quite a number of things have occurred since 1924 to make them feel high-

A new automatic and self-regulating device has been invented by John A. Stransky, H-555 Stransky Building, Fukwana, South Dakota, with which automobiles have made from 35 to 67 miles on a gallon of gasoline, saving 15 cents per gallon and over 100 miles on a tankful of gas. The device is simple, consisting of a spark plug trouble and over-heating indicator.

"Purges" and
"Physics" Bad
for Old Folks

While Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, knew that constipation was the curse of advancing age, he did not believe that a "purge" or "physio" every little while was necessary.

To him, it seemed cruel that so many constipated old people had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartics, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepin he discovered a laxative which helps to "regulate" the bowels of the old folks. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement, but each dose helps to strengthen the bowel muscles, shortly establishing natural "regularity." It never gripes, sickens, or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

If past fifty, buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine and just see for yourself.

Then Herbert stepped up and bought $200 worth of stock. And everything was lovely.

NEWS FROM ORANGE COUNTY TOWNS

OIL BOOM IS SEEN AS H. B. RIGS INCREASE

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 23.—An oil boom, which has been the dream of hundreds of local property owners for the past several months, seems about to be realized. Four derricks are already up in the section which was opened recently for oil drilling and permits for two new derricks and several oil storage tanks were issued yesterday. The Wilshire Oil company was issued a permit for a second derrick in the new territory and the McKeon Drilling company was issued a permit for a rig.

The Wilshire rig will be located on Ocean avenue between Twenty-first and Twenty-first streets, only a short distance from the first well drilled by the company. The fact that the Wilshire company has enough confidence to drill another well is regarded as a certain indication that oil has been found by the company in commercial quantities.

The entrance of the McKeon Drilling company into the district marks the entrance of the second new company during the past week and makes a total of five companies in the section. The McKeon rig is being erected at 307 Eighteenth street, between Olive and Orange avenues. The McKeon company is erecting a wooden derrick. The new Wilshire derrick is to be of steel construction. The two derricks will cost approximately $10,000, the Wilshire setting a valuation of $6000 on its rig and the McKeon estimating the cost of its rig at $4000.

Permits were also granted by the city engineering department to the Superior Oil company and the Wilshire Oil company for the erection of oil storage tanks. The Superior company was issued a permit to erect two 250-barrel production tanks. The tanks will be located on Ocean avenue between Twenty-second and Twenty-third streets and will cost $900. The Wilshire Oil company was issued a permit to erect four steel storage tanks on Ocean avenue between Twenty-first and Twenty-first streets. The tanks will be located on the same property with the new derrick and will cost approximately $700.

The Superior Oil company is expected to bring in its well at Twenty-second street and Ocean avenue today or tomorrow. The crew has been drilling into the oil sand for the past two days and, according to field reports, indications are on a 1500-barrel well.

The Wilshire well at Twenty-first street and Walnut avenue is still drilling ahead. The Wilshire gave up the shallow zone which the Superior company is developing.

The Julian company at Twenty-second street and Orange avenue is reported to be nearing the oil zone, which is expected to be encountered at between $100 and $300 feet.

Work is being rushed at the E. J. Miley well, located on Twenty-second street, only a short distance from the Superior well. Bollers and other machinery were being put in place today. According to reports, the well will be spudded in as soon as possible.

THE STORY OF EDGAR ALLEN POE

BY REDNER

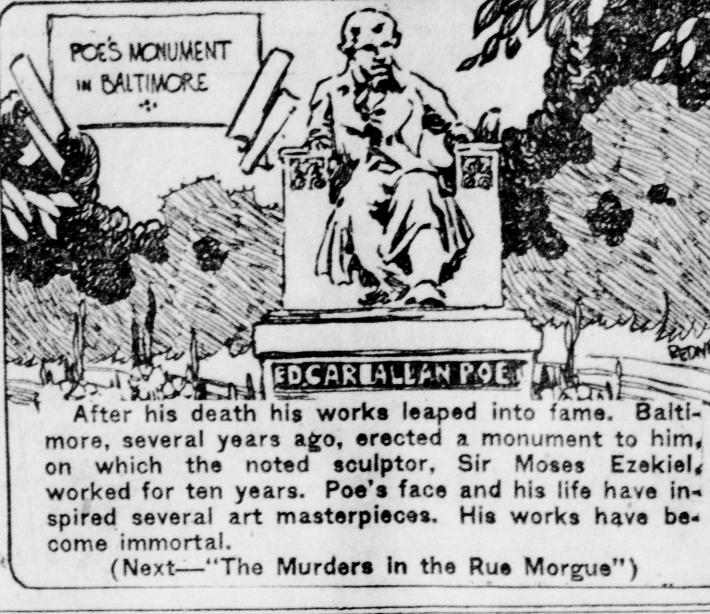

Poe set out in the fall of 1849 for Baltimore. Here befell the tragedy that led to his death. He was found dazed in a ward voting place. It is believed he was a victim of a political gang, who drugged him and voted him as a "repeater" in several precincts.

He was removed to a hospital where hope of restoring life to his drug-shattered body was given up.

Poe died October 7, 1849. He was buried in Westminster churchyard, Baltimore, beside his grandfather, the soldier.

After his death his works leaped into fame. Baltimore, several years ago, erected a monument to him, on which the noted sculptor, Sir Moses Ezekiel, worked for ten years. Poe's face and his life have inspired several art masterpieces. His works have become immortal.

The WOMAN'S DAY

by Allene Summer

ON BOARD S. S. Léviathan, July 23.—"How heavenly! Six days at sea with nothing to do but rest!" enthused envious souls when I embarked.

It is to laugh! We work hard!

First of all, they steal exactly one hour on us at midnight each night. We may climb the upper berth ladder at 11:30 and lo, it is 13:30 one minute later. Seems to be something about the sun doing something funny at sea!

We stand in line for hours. Line to change money. Line to buy boat tickets. Line to get baggage checks. Line to get seat at table. Line to get steamer rug. Line to ask for a bath.

(Baths will persist in running through my story.)

The bath stewards take a craftsman's pride in their work. They brag to one another of the "just right" temperatures they achieve, and how the last missus said she never had such a nice bath before.

They boast of the respective negliges their clients wear.

"I say, old thing," I heard one steward of Ye Bath inquire of his fellow, "Did you see the little feet my lydy had?"

Glowing with manly pride, my particular bath steward invited me last night, "to come look at my baby in the bath."

I all ready to oh-and-ah over a rosy shrub divested of swaddling clothes, found that "the baby" was ready ready for Etin or Rugby.

"Hey, y'all I'm no porpoise in the aquarium," he very properly rebuked his doting steward.

I am glad I am only a tourist. Melodies are floating from the second class cabin.

A lady old enough to remember that some folks should be seen and not heard is warbling "Asleep in the Deep."

The boat caste system is admirably shown in its library. We tourists have a few "Cooper and Sir Walter Scott" volumes.

Second class gets a bit more modern with "Garden of Allah" and "Penrod."

Up in the first class salon whither I bootlegged myself, they have Ben Hetch and "Green Hat."

However, they do not read up there. They play bridge, mah jong, chew gum, smoke cigarettes, and languidly call "steward." The array of emerald and diamond bracelets and rings is dazzling.

The beauty parlor is doing a rushing business. I watched many a blonde emerge who had entered the emporium of fragrance as a brune. Many are reading "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

My duenna is reading guide books. We are traveling alone. No party for us. We once knew a girl who went with a party and has told for five years the story of how they didn't see Notre Dame by moonlight because the outlined trip did not specify moonlight and the guide wouldn't take them until the next night, when the moon was gone.

My duenna, who will figure much in this narrative, is traveling incognito. She says that a girl is known by the company she keeps. Her last name is Herring. Her middle name is Pretzel. And her first name is Pansy.

Pansy Pretzel Herring just whispered in my ear that she had seen a school of porpoises. I am dented seeing such things, staying in this cabin as I must, to give news of what's what to my large and admiring following.

I now, too, go forth to see the porpoise, which are, it seems, large black fish, more coy than whales but smaller.

THE YOUNG DOCTOR

They said he was a doctor six or seven months ago. It's a lonely business waiting for some fool to break his leg." The older doctors listened to his dismal tale of woe, And a flood of reminiscence then it seemed began to flow. They had all been youthful doctors in the distant long ago. Now I've never been a doctor, but a lot of them I've met. And that first year, so they tell me, is a year you won't forget. With the practice slow in growing, and the mustache slower yet. So I chuckled when I saw him and his curious mustache. And I chuckled when I heard him sob about his lack of cash. And the scarcity of people with the measles or a rash. "I've a very fine diploma," he explained, "upon a peg. But if something doesn't happen I

Miss B. B. MacFarlane

NEW ORLEANS, July 23.—"If a girl meets discourtesy in the business world, it's probably her own fault," opines Miss B. B. MacFarlane, newly elected president of the Life Underwriters Association of Louisiana.

"No man is going to 'go too far' if he knows he will be rebuffed—and he always can tell."

Girls in business should dress as they please, and bob their hair if they want to, says Miss MacFarlane.

"Her appearance, if she's neat, makes little difference. It's her brains that count."

"Women should ask for work, not sympathy, from their employers. It's been my experience that if she possesses equal qualifications she'll be given an equal chance with men."

As for the equal chance, Miss MacFarlane ought to know. Her first job was as a stenographer. Now she's called the highest-salaried woman in the South and handles a $5,000,000 life insurance business annually.

It means that a good barber must cut it, if bobbed, for it must shape well to the head. It really should be shingled of course, since the shingle can correct a flat or long head and make it look round. And then the hair should be brushed—and brushed and brushed until it lies close to the head and glistens. The shorter the hair, the easier this style is. And the brushing will bring oil into the hair and greatly benefit it.

EVENING SALUTATION

For it thrills the blood in an old man's heart; And it makes his pulses fly. To catch the thrill of a happy voice, And the light of a pleasant eye. —N. P. Willis.

FOR A CENTRAL HOSPITAL

It is to be hoped that the proposal for the construction of an adequate hospital for use by the paying public, on or near the county farm, to be under county management, can be carried forward to realization. The location would prove acceptable to practically the entire county. In fact, there is no other location that would come anywhere near proving acceptable.

There may be some legal difficulties to be overcome. Possibly an amendment to the present state law will have to be sought.

The need of adequate hospital facilities in Orange county has been apparent for several years. The plan suggested yesterday to the Board of Supervisors, as outlined in yesterday's Register, seems to offer a way out of the situation that has been troubling the various communities of the county.

ANCIENT BENEFACTORS

The Lotus land of the South Pacific is generally regarded as a paradise filled by Nature with blessed gifts for an undeserving race. Not including the white race, of course; by its own admission, it deserves anything. The natives have been supposed always to have taken their ease there, as our first parents did in Eden.

It is not true, says Dr. Herbert E. Gregory, director of the Polynesian museum at Honolulu. He has been investigating the botanical life of the various groups of South Sea islands, including Hawaii, and concludes that those areas were once barren in comparison with their present luxurious vegetation.

The first visitors to the Hawaiian islands, he says, faced great hardships, from hunger and the peril of strange seas. But like true pioneers, instead of giving up, they labored to make the forbidding lands fruitful.

"They traveled thousands of miles in outrigger canoes, carrying with them such fruits as the banana, the breadfruit, the coconut and the vegetables that are now found here. They and succeeding pioneers have brought with them the fruits and vegetables that now grow in profusion in the South Seas and Hawaii."

Has this not been true elsewhere? The beginnings of most of the necessities and comforts of mankind are lost in the prehistoric past. But the chances are that whatever we find a valuable food or material utilized by man, some individual or tribe long ago wrested that from wild nature, carried it far and tended it laboriously, to make it serve human ends. Our greatest benefactors are unknown, and all the past has served the present, as we serve the future.

MEXICAN BOOSTERS

Wonders will never cease. The incredible is always breaking out in some new form. Mexico has taken up the American boosting spirit and is full of publicity stunts. This is on the authority of a dispatch from Dallas, Texas, from which vantage-point eagle-eyed newspaper men interpret Mexico to the States.

"The chamber of commerce," we read, "has become a real part of Mexican civic life. Scores of smaller communities have their chambers to promote home affairs, much as do towns in the United States, but yet with a sufficiently different character to retain a distinct Mexican atmosphere."

For example, a special train laden with tourists will be taken several hundred miles, into a strange town, where the passengers will be transferred to dilapidated carriages and hauled over unpaved streets, past one-story adobe buildings, to the local chamber of commerce. There they will find an official welcome, translated from Spanish into English, and a reception and dance, in which introductions are waived and the visitors may dance, to good music, with handsome Mexican girls. After prolonged entertainment and manifestations of good will, the guests are returned to their train, and as they move away the orchestra stands on the station platform bidding them good-by with music.

This sort of thing, widely done, will give Americans a more friendly interest in Mexico and Mexicans, quite aside from their business interest. It also challenges admiration. If the slow, backward Mexicans are evolving into a nation of boosters and go-getters, then, the average American will conclude, there is hope for Mexico.

MEDICAL FAKES

The medical fakes of a few years ago mostly took the form of what were called patent medicines—warmed to cure anything, and containing, as a rule, water, flavoring, and just enough of a habit-forming drug to keep the patient buying more.

The present day style takes, quite often, the form of a "laboratory" which advertises that it will "awaken glands and nerves and give back the vigor of youth."

Light thrown by the medical world and the forces of publicity upon the cause and cure of tuberculosis has to a large extent deprived of their riotous gains those people who used to guarantee "consumption cures." But fake-lifters who will ruin what features you have got and leave you worse off than before, for large sum of good coin, are still rampant.

The U. S. government, according to Hygeia, has been closing the mails to great numbers of these swindlers, but other numbers are still operating, some of them managing to keep just under the law, others flouting it openly for the sake of getting what they can while the getting is good.

Asthma cannot be cured in four minutes—no matter what the ads say. Pyorrhea is best attacked by a competent dentist.

It's curious what people will do to their precious internal workings because they are afraid of doctors or doctors' fees. Yet the doctor always costs less than the fake, and gives one a chance at health.

LOOKING AHEAD FIFTY YEARS

Since sesquicentennials are coming into vogue, it may be worth while to give a moment's attention to the the sesquicentennial of Boardman, O. It is not a mere imitation of the Philadelphia affair. It would be ludicrous for Boardman to ape Philadelphia. For Boardman is a place that can only be found on the largest-scale maps, and a motor tourist would probably go right through it without seeing it. It is not even an incorporated village. It is a cross-roads, surrounded by farms and forests, now turning suburban. Yet it has its history.

Half a century ago the farmer residents of Boardman held a centennial celebration of the first settling of the place. At that gathering they did a unique thing. They got together thirteen bright, healthy boys, and those boys resolved themselves into a committee which was to meet in 50 years from that time and plan another celebration. Eleven of those boys are still living. Ten of them are getting together and planning their century-and-a-half community celebration, as per program.

Isn't that enough to send a little thrill through any pioneer or any community? And isn't an example worth following, so that American communities hereafter may keep closer contact with their historic past than this generation has had?

Lettuce for Millions

Pasadena Star-News

Lettuce—once lowly lettuce—is becoming a prince in the realm of vegetables. And California is leading all the states in quantity of lettuce produced. Shipments of lettuce in 1925 were six times as great as the shipments in 1916. Total value of the American lettuce crop last year was approximately $20,000,000. Potatoes, sweet potatoes and tomatoes exceeded lettuce in valuation—but no other vegetables did.

Lettuce is the pride of the vegetarian. It adapts itself, not only to garnishment of fruit and vegetable dishes, but as a chief ingredient of salads. Conceded, even by eaters of meat and of mixed diets, as being nutritious, lettuce is deservedly popular and in constant demand.

Growing of lettuce in the fertile valleys of California, has grown into an industry of big proportions. Great quantities are shipped out of the state, to distant markets, by express. Besides bringing much money into this state, California has the satisfaction of knowing that it is contributing much to the health of the people and to their physical well-being, by producing this nourishing vegetable.

Americans are turning more and more to fruits and vegetables in this dietary. And the effect is most wholesome. Even the tables which serve meats, have their menus balanced by vegetable and fruit dishes. This demand for fruits and vegetables on the dining tables of the masses is stimulating the growing of fruits and vegetables—and in this California is expanding its horticultural industries, in the spirit of forward-looking enterprise, to meet the increasing demands.

Dubious on Tainted Money Tax

San Francisco Chronicle

The boon that Bobby Burns so fervently implored—"O wad some Power the giftie gie us, to see oursels as others see us!"—is soon to be conferred upon us by the judicial commission of the privy council, the highest court in the British empire.

The commission now has before it a decision involving the moral turpitude of government involved in taxing the income of a bootlegger, a practice to which we have become accustomed in the United States through usage.

Canada sought to follow the precedent of the United States in such matters by taxing the $90,000 income of Cecil R. Smith, a bootlegger of Windsor, Canada. Smith objected on the ground that his income was derived through moral turpitude and that government cannot be a partner to crime.

The Supreme Court of Canada upheld Smith's objection and the appeal went to the judicial commission. There Lord Haldane has expressed the opinion that the government should follow the precedent set in the case of a burglar who sought an accounting from his partner—both were cast into prison. Lord Darling replied that the government should say to a pirate: "Because you are a pirate I shall tax you; if I catch you pirating I shall hang you."

The decision when issued, although not legally binding on our tax agents, will at least inform us how others regard the taxing of tainted money.

EVERY CITIZEN CONCERNED IN PURE WATER PROBLEMS

Foremost among the deleterious influences exerted by stream pollution is the contamination of public water supplies. If not prevented, or if not remedied by the installation of water purification plants, sickness and death are inevitable.

Nuisances manifested by offensive odors and unsightliness may also result. Thus the public health and comfort are disturbed.

The wholesome recreation afforded by fishing, bathing and boating may be jeopardized by pollution. Bathing in polluted water is so manifestly hazardous as to require repeated words of warning.

Fish life may be entirely destroyed by pollution due to industrial wastes. Live stock, through inability to secure plentiful supplies of safe water may also suffer.

Coming to a consideration of the treatment of unsafe streams, one is struck by the obviousness, the expensiveness and also the necessity of the remedies.

When a stream is polluted by sewage, either a disposal plant must be constructed or the sewage outlet established at such a point as will insure offensive elimination of the waste. If the dilution is sufficient, measures for purification of the water may be substituted.

When pollution is caused by an industrial waste, and it is desired to prevent contamination, two courses are open, namely: Either the discharge of the material must be discontinued entirely or an efficient disposal plant utilized.

In the latter instance, the waste must be so modified in character as to render it less obnoxious and the water safe or easily capable of being made so.

Owing to the importance of the stream pollution problem from the standpoint of health and welfare, every citizen has an interest at stake. Primarily the matter demands full understanding and co-operation between public health officials, municipalities

The Grumble Seat

The Fruit and the Flower

Oakland Tribune

The man who digs into the books, the facts, and the crannies of his own mind may emerge one whom the world calls impractical. He may even see those who boast of the degree which is won by hard knocks move forward to position of prominence while he does little more than edge his chair the nearer to the library table. Book-learning versus experience, the hard-headed, common sense, self-raised and self-trained go-getter against the student who accumulates reverential modesty with wisdom—these represent the types on either side of an old argument. Each has something the other does not possess; probably each knows something the other would not understand.

Dr. John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton University, delivered a speech the other day in which he dwelt upon the not so apparent rewards which come with learning. He spoke of the fruit and the flower of knowledge and, as quoted in the Christian Science Monitor, said:

"Whether it is the utility value of knowledge or the sheer will to know, there is still another aspect of the search for truth which the scholar may fail to recognize. The bare results of scholarly investigations, accumulated facts, generalizations, formulas and hypotheses based upon these facts and resulting from the activities of the broadening mind—these I would characterize as the 'fruit' of knowledge.

"But there is also a residual element of significant value, a possible by-product of all scholarly research. The scholar does not possess it; it rather possesses him. I refer to the effect produced upon the inquiring mind itself by daily and hourly contact with truth. It is not only the question of what the scholar is able to acquire as the fruit of knowledge, but also to what extent is his own nature enriched and deepened by such knowledge. The latter I would characterize as the 'flower' of knowledge."

A chubby boy held a great sea-shell picked up in some happy beach wanderings of the hostess, and from the shell, the water poured in cooling streams to the pool where the gold fish flitted lazily. Trickle-trickle-trickle. A fountain's lovely soothng sound. How delightfully one might sleep with that musical splash to accompany one's dreams, we told the hostess, and felt comfortably drowsy and lulled into sweet sleepiness as we listened—Trickle-trickle-trickle.

A MEMORY
Oh memory is a trickey thing! So dim has the pathway grown—
So long have our paths led far apart and I've trodden the way alone,
That the thought of you and the spirit I loved and knew,
Are much like the roses of yesteryear, that once in a garden grew Like those roses, you gladdened a fleeting hour and perfumed a golden day,
And your memory is fair in my heart and will brighten my dreams always.
Yet who remembers a single rose or its scent in the twilight gloom?
Save those in a quaint old Chinese jar that sweeten a darkened room?
So the thought of you is a vagrant thought, shadowy, faint and fleet;
Like the roses of summers long ago, you make the memories sweet.
And a queer, dim chamber of my heart which no fires of time consume,
Is fresh with the memory of you,
like a lingering faint perfume.
CHRONICLES OF THE LITTLE
GRAY HOUSE
Not so long ago, at the Little Gray House, something happened to the plumbing, and until we could get a plumber in to repair the break there was one long night of the most maddening tricke-tricke-tricke— and, since it is such a very Little Gray House, there was no possibility of seeking rest in a room to which the monotonous noise might not penetrate.
All night long it ran, tricke-tricke-tricke.

Rest was forbidden, relaxation was impossible and sleep was out of the question. Those weird night noises, when boards creak with strange suddenness, roosters crow with maddening regularity, a disturbed bird sings and chirps sleep
